Engineered Soils

Engineered Soil is specialized media designed to meet specific performance criteria or site conditions. Our standard medias provide solutions from tree preservation to green roofs. Working on a special project? Let us partner with you to develop and produce custom soil and soilless media or blended components to meet your specifications. It's important to provide a full specification for each project as there are requirements listed in different parts of the job specification. The specification also details the sampling and submittal process that must be followed.

CU-Structural Soil™

Developed and tested at Cornell University, CU-Structural Soil™ is a media designed to provide increased rooting volume for trees in plantings adjacent to pavement. This mix is a revolutionary patented stone/soil tree mix that extends urban tree life and growth, optimizes root space under pavement, increases porosity and drainage while providing a stable pavement base. Midwest Trading is licensed to produce CU-Structural Soil™ under strict qualifications. This is a non-stocked item, please allow time for production scheduling.

Midwest Roof Media

Formulated under the German FLL standards, Midwest Trading specializes in a variety of green roof and roof garden growing media for many different applications. A popular global trend in urban settings, green roofs and roof gardens reduce runoff, lower ambient air temperatures, reduce air and ozone pollutants, provide a habitat for wildlife, improve site aesthetics and increase real estate value.
